Indictments Returned By Grand Jury This Morn Hold Them.

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Indictments were returned in the circuit court this morning against City Attorney John K. Scott, charging malfeasance in office in refusing to proceed against law violators; Thomas Cox, suspended chief of police, and John Looney, former publisher of the Rock Island News, for alleged conspiracy in the promotion of gambling. Scott, Looney and Cox are alleged to have been members of an immunity ring that controlled all local underworld trafficking.

Others named in indictments returned today are Lawrence Pedigo, Louis Orrell, Jake and Pete Schaum, Lou Meumann, Richard Gleason, Frank Donohue, Robert Kinner, Geo. Christopher and Bert Grosbeck.

Collected $2,000 Per Day. The local vice ring collections are said to have totaled as high as $2,000 per day when the city was running wide open. This money was paid by houses of prostitution, bootlegging bars, gambling resorts and narcotic peddlers it is alleged.

John Looney, who is wanted on a number of charges, including conspiracy to commit murder, is still a fugitive from justice. He is being hunted by federal and state officers. Looney was for years recognized as the king of the Rock Island underworld. He was a lawyer and publisher of the News, a sensational weekly devoted largely to underworld scandals and to exposing the alleged social indiscretions of prominent citizens. The paper suspended publication two weeks ago when threatened with injunction proceedings by the state.

Rear Admiral William S. Benson, retired, president of the National Council of Catholic Laymen, last night appealed for greater and more united efforts by Catholics in civic affairs that "the present tide of irreligion" may be stemmed.

"The wave of feminism that is passing over the land" was deprecated by Mrs. Nelson O'Shaughnessy.

"A world run by women," she declared, "would be dreadful to contemplate. Men may have muddled the affairs of the world badly but doubtless they have done better than would the women."

Revolver He Was Demonstrating Was Discharged.

Kirkville, Mo., Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—A coroner's inquest was to be held today into the death of Dr. George A. Still, president of the American School of Osteopathy here and nationally known osteopath, who was killed instantly last night when an automatic pistol he was demonstrating discharged. The bullet penetrated his brain.

The accident occurred in the presence of his wife, Mrs. Adella Dockery Still, his parents, Doctors S. S. Still and Ella E. Still, and about thirty-five nurses, internes and physicians of the school of osteopathy who were guests at the Still home.

Dr. Still was a sportsman and a lover of outdoors. He had shown members of the party his shotguns and was exhibiting the mechanism of a new automatic pistol which he recently had purchased, when the accident occurred. ## BIG TEN TITLE RESTS ON THREE GAMES SATURDAY

Chicago, Iowa, Michigan Undeclared in Big Race.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Chicago, Nov. 24.—Championship honors in the "Big Ten" conference today rested on the outcomes of three games tomorrow.

All conference eleven were slated for only short and light field work today, followed by a session at the blackboard.

While interest centered chiefly in the Chicago-Wisconsin; Iowa-Northwestern; and Michigan-Minnesota games, the Illinois-Ohio State game promised to draw a record crowd Saturday in "state" and "Kiwaniis" day at the field.

The Badgers entrained this morning for Chicago and this afternoon were to take a light workout on the Stagg Field. The lineup for the game was still in doubt, with indications however, that one of two positions will be filled by subs. Enthusiasm this morning was at a high point, since Chicago's claim to championship honors depends on its winning tomorrow's game. The Maroons, Iowa and Michigan are tied, each having a perfect record.

The Gophers were prepared to enter Saturday's game in a stiff attempt to blight Michigan's hopes for a championship. Michigan arrived at Minneapolis today. A light workout was called for this afternoon.

The Hawkeye squad, with its intensive drill completed, had a day of light drill to complete the practice for the Northwestern game.

The Buckeyes stopped off at Danville, Ill., today on their way to Urbana. Plans call for an all night stay there. At Urbana, it was reported that Illinois had ended its drill and were en route for the Buckeyes as a fitting close for the season.

Indiana departed this afternoon for Lafayette to meet Purdue, their old rivals.

PREACHER-SHERIFF EXECUTED MURDERER IN IOWA THIS MORN

Execution at Fort Madison Lacked Spectacular Features.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Fort Madison, Iowa, Nov. 24.—Orie Cross died shortly after 7:30 this morning on the gallows in the walled enclosure at the state prison here where his partner in murder, Eugene Weeks died ten weeks ago.

The trap was sprung by Sheriff Robb of Polk county, who during the war was chaplain of the 18th Infantry overseas and who until recently was pastor of the Urbandale Federated church in Des Moines. Robb also sprung the trap which caused the death of Weeks on September 15.

The execution lacked spectacular features.

Cross failed to deliver his promised five-minute address from the scaffold but marched from his cell to the gibbet in silence, engaged in a brief, whispered conversation with Father A. J. Zaiser, stepped onto the trap and as the half hour sounded, Sheriff Robb pulled the lever.

Under the usual guard, Cross was taken from his cell about 7:15 o'clock, marched to the corner of the prison enclosure, where the scaffold had been erected and passed within the boarded screen that shut it from the view of the rest of the institution.

He was stoical.

Witnesses were astonished at the stoical expression and erect bearing with which he made his last steps and awaited the spring of the trap.

His only words during the death march was an objection to photographers snapping pictures of him and the official party on its way to the gallows.

He paused long enough to shake hands with Warden T. P. Hallows and several of Sheriff Robb's deputies. Thirteen minutes after the trap was sprung, Cross was pronounced dead.

Sheriff Robb stood the ordeal with fortitude and has no statement to make. He left Fort Madison immediately for Dubuque where he will deliver a lecture tonight.

Cross' death on the gallows ends the last chapter of the tragedy began in Des Moines on the Saturday night of February 4th, 1921, when George A. Fossick, grocer, was shot down in cold blood, by a pair of youthful bandits as he was entering his home.

Eugene Weeks, hanged September 15, is alleged to have plotted the crime and led his companion, Cross, into it. Cross is said to have confessed that he fired the shots which ended Fossick's life.

Says Miners Cannot Accept Cut in Wage

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—Any move to lower wages of miners or remove any favorable working conditions granted them in recent years will not be accepted by the miners, Ellis Searles, editor of the official publication of the United Mine Workers declared in an address today before the Business Service Club.

"Whether there will be another strike of coal miners next year is a question that no living man can answer today," he said.

"If there are any in this country who are anticipating lower wages for coal miners next year they may as well abandon this anticipation now and devote their spare time to some other subject. The miners are not asking for any general or universal increase in their wages in the bituminous industry, but miners in the anthracite region have asked, they are now asking and they will continue to demand increased wages until their wage rates are brought to the level where they belong."

He pointed out the hazards of mining and declared those "who enjoy the benefits and the comforts that flow from the labor of these men ought to be humane and fair enough to grant them a measure of compensation that will justify them in taking the awful risks."

Illinois Operators Meet; Discuss Wage

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Chicago, Nov. 24.—Representatives of the Illinois Coal Operators met here today to adopt a policy in connection with the plans of the bituminous operators of the country for formulating future wage agreements with the miners.

The meeting was an outgrowth of recent conferences of representatives of operators and miners which adjourned until Dec. 4 to permit operators' representatives to confer with their associates. The principal question pending when the conference adjourned was whether new agreements should be predicated on the old central competitive field basis or to enlarge it to include a few other states besides Pennsylvania, Ohio, Indiana and Illinois.

Gas from Stove May Have Killed Family

Lancaster, Ohio, Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Whether Irving Henderson, his wife and their four children died of poisoning or were asphyxiated by fumes from a gas stove, was expected to be disclosed by the results of investigations under way at Columbus today.

Examination of the vital organs of Mr. and Mrs. Henderson, analysis of the food found on the Henderson table for the fateful Tuesday evening meal and an investigation under various conditions of a stove used in the Henderson living room, were the actions upon which the future plans of local officials hinged today.

Authorities here are marking time pending the results of the research work in Columbus. All indications they assert, point to poison, if such was the manner of death, having been administered in the food. They declare that evidence seems to point to Mrs. Henderson as the perpetrator of the deaths.

Funeral services for the family were to be held at Nelsonville today. The bodies were shipped there yesterday.

CHIEF LIEUTENANT OF DEVALERA EXECUTED IN DUBLIN THIS A. M.

Ersine Childers is Put to Death By National Army Decree.

Dublin, Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—Ersine Childers, chief lieutenant of Eamon De Valera, was executed here today.

He was executed at 7 o'clock this morning for having had an automatic pistol in his possession. It was announced in an official bulletin given out by the National Army.

The brief army report states that Childers was tried by a military court at Portobello Barracks, Dublin, Nov. 17, charged with being in possession without proper authority, of an automatic pistol when apprehended by national forces, Nov. 10 at Annamore House, County Wicklow. The accused, the report adds, was found guilty and sentenced to death and the finding and sentence being duly confirmed, the execution was carried out this morning.

Ersine Childers, a lieutenant commander in the Irish Republican army and a right hand man of Eamon De Valera, was placed on trial before a military tribunal in Dublin on Nov. 17 on the charge that he had a pistol when arrested at Wicklow by Free State forces on Nov. 19. The trial lasted two days. Childers, who was 52 years old, appealed for a writ of habeas corpus, which was denied yesterday. He then appealed to the Court of Appeals for Southern Ireland.

Childers was an ardent proponent of the Irish Free State on the ground that it meant absorption of Ireland in the last June in the elections for the British empire. He was defeated South Irish parliament receiving fewer votes than any other candidate in the whole election.

Early in the next month he was reported to be organizing a band of insurgents in the Dublin hills and last June in the elections for the band of irregulars who cut the cable in Valentia Harbor.

The Dublin correspondent of the Press Association notes that Eamon De Valera, recently said that blood would flow if Childers was executed. The situation is pregnant with ugly possibilities, he adds.

The fate of Childers has been in the balance for days, while court actions have found out, ending with the adverse finding out, today for a stay of judgment.

Childers is thought likely to have inspired heavy but abortive attacks on national army posts in Dublin throughout the night.

Think He Was Shot. The method of execution was not officially described, but it is believed it was shooting.

Childers was captured Nov. 4, at the home of a relative Robert Barton.

Two columns of national troops surrounded the Barton house. Childers was found in an upstairs bedroom. He attempted to draw a pistol but was overpowered.

Childers was educated at Trinity College, Cambridge. He served in the European war as a lieutenant commander of the Royal Navy volunteers between July and May, 1916, and won the distinguished service cross for his service with the anti-submarine forces.

FARMER, KNOWN HERE, SUICIDED THURSDAY NIGHT

Oscar Ritzman Shot Self Thru Heart; Left a Note.

H. Oscar Ritzman, prominent farmer, residing on the Polo road, north east of Sterling, suicided last evening about 8 o'clock at his home by firing one shell from a 45 caliber revolver through his heart, causing instant death. Mr. Ritzman is well known in Dixon and has many relatives residing here.

It is presumed that worry over financial difficulties led him to the act of self destruction. He went to Sterling yesterday afternoon and to many of his acquaintances with whom he talked, he appeared to be highly nervous and despondent. A note which he left had not been opened today at noon, its contents to be investigated at the coroner's inquest which is being conducted this afternoon.

Mr. Ritzman ate his supper with his son Claire and wife last evening and following the meal bathed and went to a spare bedroom in the house. He locked the door and lay down on the bed and fired one bullet from a 45 caliber revolver through his heart. The bullet passed through his body and the bedding, lodging in the floor. The son forced his way into the room and found his father lying on the bed in a pool of blood.

Funeral services will be conducted from the home Sunday afternoon at 2:30, Rev. Garrison of Sterling officiating and with burial in the Prairieville cemetery.

Must Make Church Dynamic Center of Community, Dr. Burns

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 24.—Only by making the church the dynamic center in every activity of the community can it accomplish its full purpose, declared Dr. M. P. Burns of Philadelphia, at the annual meeting of the Board of Home Missions of the Methodist Episcopal church held here today.

"More and more, in the judgment of the best leaders, the church must become dominating force in the life of the community in which it stands," he said.

"It must, in a large measure, direct the thinking and activities of the people in their social, political, economic and religious life. I believe profoundly in the ultimate Christianizing of a social order."

"Every ill that the human inherits or accumulates should be relieved as rapidly as possible whether physical, social, intellectual moral or spiritual, making the church the servant of the people and thus compelling to the people to the church."

"Intelligent, effective and well directed service is impossible without a consistent and adequate leadership. We are of the opinion that a great leadership will, in the end, command a world following and hence finally produce a world redeemed."

Many churches, which fail in their work because they fail to change their programs with the changing needs of the community, now are branching into work which is proving beneficial to the neighborhoods surrounding them, thus proving their need to the community, Dr. Burns said.

Usher Offered to Return Bill to J. D.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. New York, Nov. 24.—Ignorant of the identity of the donor, a church usher once offered to return a $10 bill to John D. Rockefeller, Jr., because he thought he had not intended to put that much in the collection plate. The story was told by his son John D. Rockefeller, Jr., at the dedication reception last night, in the new Park Avenue Baptist church.

The elder Rockefeller, with two friends, was attending church services in Springfield, Mass. Mr. Rockefeller hesitated before dropping the $10 in the plate, thinking it might reveal his identity. After the service the usher approached Mr. Rockefeller and told him he noticed his hesitancy and that if he had not meant to give so large an amount he would gladly return it.

PROPOSAL TO SPEND BIG SUM ON ILLINOIS RIVER IS OBJECTED TO

A. C. Warner Cites One Reason He's Against New Basic Law.

Editor Telegraph: There are some good points in the new constitution as prepared by the convention and now awaiting the verdict of the voters of Illinois, but there are some features which in my judgment are entirely unsatisfactory and which should defeat its approval. One of these is the attempt to harness upon the taxpayers of Illinois a new debt of ten million dollars to be added to the cost of improving the Illinois River, upon the supposition that such expenditure would reduce the cost of freight to the farmers of Illinois. When the vote was taken to permit the issue of twenty million dollars for the purpose of making a channel for carrying freight at a low price, the voters were assured that the sum voted would be adequate for doing the work, and that within a year or two the wonderful advantages of water transportation would be in full action. Nothing has been done in that direction except to build a very expensive dam at Mariemont. That created some water power, but it does not help the farmers. It probably increases the value of some property owned by insiders who expect to reap an advantage from the water power.

It is a foolish expenditure, when we consider the fate of other similar attempts to carry freight by river. The Great Lakes are suitable for water traffic. They have no mud bottoms to contend with.

Cites Other Rivers. Let us see what has been the condition of water traffic upon rivers and canals during the last few years. In St. Louis there was formed a company known as the Streckfus Company, for carrying freight upon the Mississippi River between St. Paul and St. Louis. They spent large sums in building new steamboats for that purpose. Although millions of dollars have been spent by the U. S. Government in dredging the river, the Streckfus Company was unable to carry freight at a profit, and has ceased operations in that line. The United States Government established a fleet of barges to carry freight from St. Louis south on the Mississippi River. Traffic has now been suspended for four months, owing to the filling of the channel with sand bars. A recent report of U. S. Engineers is now in session trying to ascertain whether the channel can be restored.

The State of New York has within recent years expended one hundred and thirty millions of dollars to improve the canal and build up traffic upon the Erie Canal. The traffic is now less than before the improvement was made. The Hennepin Canal was built at a cost of more than nine million dollars. It lies dormant and useless, and the United States Government is paying about $100,000.00 per year for its caretakers.

How about the Illinois River. It has a mud bottom. The heavy freight will fill up the channel. The narrowness of the channel will permit a heavy wind to drive loaded boats into the mud. Straining the boats with heavy loads to extricate them will cause leakage and damage the cargo. Mark Twain was a pilot upon the Mississippi River for several years. He believed that traffic by boats carrying freight upon the Illinois River would never succeed, and remarked that the only way that the river could be made fit for that use would be to have the river bottom lathed and plastered. When an expenditure of twenty million dollars has been burdened upon the voters of Illinois by a project which is of no value to the majority of them, why should sensible men vote to increase their load with an addition to ten million dollars.

THINK ROBBERS MAY HAVE BEEN CHICAGO THUGS

Clues Obtained May Lead to Arrest of Depot Robbers.

Northwestern railroad officials are today working on a clue which it is hoped will cast some light on the robbery in this city Sunday night when the passenger station ticket office was robbed of more than $600. An automobile, which is believed to have been the one used by the bandits after securing the sum of money, is said to have stopped at a garage in Sterling, carrying three men who answer the description of the trio who were in the depot here Sunday evening.

That the robbers came here from a suburb of Chicago is the belief of the authorities. The license number of the car and a very good description has been furnished the railway special agents who are now working on the case.

It is the general opinion that the two men who held up and robbed Walter W. Trautman, ticket agent at the depot, spent two days here, planning their act. Some time Sunday afternoon a high-powered touring car is believed to have arrived here with a third party, who talked with the pair in the depot and upon leaving, told the men that he would meet them in Sterling.

Officials believe that the pair after the holdup, were picked up in a car near the depot and probably drove to Sterling, where they remained for several hours and after midnight, doubled back through Dixon and proceeded east to a place near Chicago. The car was seen to enter the city from the east and was spattered with mud and was equipped with the chains. One of the pair, during their brief stay here, dropped some information which may prove valuable to the railroad officials in their attempt to round up the men.

CLEMENCEAU REPLIES TO SENATORS; CITES HITCHCOCK'S DEFEAT

Dares Beaten Senator to Go to France and Learn Facts.

Boston, Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press.)—The Tiger of France lashed back at his senate critics today in his first American interview granted to The Associated Press, replying particularly to the criticisms of Senators Hitchcock and Borah.

"Senator Hitchcock calls me a militarist," Clemenceau, French war time premier said. Well I am glad to tell Mr. Hitchcock he is in the senate, owing to the vote, for only a few more days. When he is free, I dare him to go to France and learn the facts."

Answering Senator Hitchcock's demand that he explain why France insisted on using black troops in her army of occupation, the "Tiger" declared that Hitchcock had been misled by German propaganda, and that today there was not a single black soldier in German territory.

Replies to Borah. To Senator Borah's recent assertion that Clemenceau was primarily responsible for conditions in Europe because of his great influence in the drafting of the Versailles treaty, the aged statesman declared his situation was "particularly distressing," since in France he had been most bitterly criticized for having asked from the Germans "less than I ought to."

When he was told that some of the senators at Washington had said they were not able to understand clearly from his speeches just what he wanted of America, the "Tiger" said with a gleam in his eyes, that he thought they would know after his address this afternoon in Tremont Temple—the second formal speech of his American tour.

His Military Views. "I have suffered much from 1871 to 1917 for not being a militarist. I turned militarist when the war broke out—before, I had been a militarist to the extent of extending the length of military service in France. "But that wasn't so bad. If it allowed us to oppose the German front until England and America appeared."

"In the first place there are no black troops of occupation in the area of occupation of the enemy. If the second place, I have seen black American troops at the front, and they stood the fire with bravery too."

"Of course this has nothing to do with the question of whether we are militarists or not. It is an attempt of German propaganda to oppose France and America and obscure what is really the great question."

"The Germans and all of our foes had been killing enough of our white men, and 100,000 black men fell gallantly fighting on the frontiers of liberty as Woodrow Wilson called them. We are not going to deny them a place in history."

"Now these black soldiers were always more or less occupying towns in France and always got along perfectly with the white French people. Even, I should say, their discipline is stricter than any white troops."

Call Charges Lies. "So—I have seen papers of German propaganda which I suppose inspired Mr. Hitchcock's sayings and I can plainly say they are so many lies."

"The day before I left Paris I heard that these stories would be employed to prove we were a militaristic people. So I asked the official people to give me plain information."

"The answer was that there was only one established case of a Senegalese having mistreated a German woman. He was sentenced by a military tribunal."

The reason black troops were sent into the occupation zone, at first, Clemenceau said, was to provide a few months of home leave for the white troops, "that had stood the fire for years until America could come, and were rather exhausted."

"We couldn't foresee," he said, "that it would be more objectionable to the Germans than to the French in whose towns they had been garrisoned. When we learned it was, they were withdrawn."

Germans Used Blacks. "The German objection was more of a surprise because they employed black troops, and always got along perfectly with the front. It was because no means of bringing them could be found. They did find means to invade Belgian Congo with the blacks."

Then the "Tiger" came to Senator Borah's statement that he, Clemenceau, was responsible for most of Europe's woes, because of the treaty of Versailles.

Declaring that the criticism was exactly opposite in his own country where he was assailed for not demanding enough he continued:

"Let those who say I asked too much go to Europe—let them bring their German friends and let us settle at there where it can be seen."

Moreover, if too much at Versailles, which I do not believe, yet 75 per cent of it has been taken out without my consent and out of my power."

Ending the interview Clemenceau declared his reception in America had followed the team to Chicago today.

My home is here among the hills.
Where vagrant breezes wander free
O'er sparkling lakes and laughing rills
Which sing their happy songs for me.
Beneath the rocky crags I roam
Where, in the spring arbutus shows,
This here I live and make my home.
In spite of winter's blinding snows.

I wander o'er fertile fields,
Through tangled brush and mossy fen.
I linger where all nature yields
Its peaceful stillness in the glen,
And all my life would be a joy
If men would let me wander free,
But they their cruel guns employ
To pester, maim and slaughter me.

What have I done that I should pay
The price supreme and give my life
What have I done—you hunters, say,
I deal in neither stress nor strife,
I eat enough to keep alive,
And I—who made the great and small
Intended that I should survive;
But you would kill us, one and all.

My brothers and my sisters flee
Before the cruel, roaring gun.
I have no doubt you'd slaughter me
And think it naught but harmless fun.
Oh, heedless hunter, pause, survey
The suffering that your practice brings,
Are you take up your gun to slay
The slyest of God's living things.

"Blessed are the merciful."

Defeated Candidate Becomes Sarcastic

Omaha, Nebraska, Nov. 23—Kissling of two old maids and the near joining of church were among items listed in the expense account of L. W. Little, defeated candidate for sheriff of Nebraska county filed today. Stating he spent $27.50 in his campaign, Little itemized the account as follows:

"Gas and oil; drove car 1,000 miles; walked 900; nine blow outs and seven punctures; gave away nine yards of cotton flannel, three hair nets and two pair of silk hose; was dog-bit twice; told 10,000 lies; got kicked off of two farms; kissed sixty-two babies and two old maids; attended one bar-becue; came near joining church for policy's sake; made one public speech and if I had made another I would not have received a single vote."

Another Cow Makes Great Record at Test Plant West of Dixon

Chloronate Johanna Guy Segia senior four year old cow at the Dixon testing plant, finished her record Wednesday evening with 21,997.7 pounds of milk and 955.04 pounds of butter. This makes her the second highest record senior four year old in the state.

This cow came to the plant Nov. 14, 1921, and did not have the advantage of a long fitting period, so essential to the making of high records. However, she completed a record fully 100 pounds higher than expected by her owner, D. F. Milliken of Lyndon, in Whiteside county. A record of 950 pounds as a senior four year old is considered the equivalent of 1,000 pounds as a mature cow.

MRS. BERTRAND IS WELL AND HAPPY AS A GIRL

"Before I took Tanlac I was so run down I could hardly do my housework, but now I can sweep and iron and bake and take care of baby without feeling a bit of weariness," this statement was made recently by Mrs. B. Bertrand, 1235 Calumet Ave., Hammond, Ind.

"I had no appetite and my stomach was so disordered that even after the lightest meal gas would form and almost suffocate me. My nerves were running wild so I couldn't sleep well and all during the day I was troubled with headaches and dizzy spells."

"My health was simply being wrecked, and when one of the neighbors recommended Tanlac I lost no time in getting a bottle. All at once my appetite started up, my stomach trouble disappeared and I have finished my third bottle feeling like a new person. My nerves are no longer topsy-turvy and I am so well and happy that I just feel like singing all day long."

Tanlac is sold by all good druggists.—Adva.

Railroad Guard is on Trial for Murder

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Leon, Iowa, Nov. 24.—The second day of the trial of J. R. Sears, Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad guard for the slaying of C. A. Blodgett, striking shop man, of Creston, opened today with George McClelland, Blodgett's companion at the time of the shooting on the stand. He testified that the railroad guard shot without warning. He also declared that neither he nor Blodgett intended any harm by walking on the railroad property.

Following McClelland, Chief of Police Lowden of Creston and Sheriff Clifton of Union County were placed on the stand.

They testified to the finding of Blodgett's body and to the story told by Sears when he was taken into custody after the shooting.

Charles Cook, chairman of the striking shop men's union, was on the stand this morning.

In the court room, listening with grave faces to the proceedings, sat Sears' six small children, who accompanied their mother here from Galesburg, Ill., Sears' home.

Mrs. Blodgett, wife of the deceased striker, is present with her three children.

Italy today mourns death of Sonnino; was former premier

Baron was also foreign minister during late World Conflict.

Rome, Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Italy mourned today the passing of Baron Sonnino, who was twice her premier and her foreign minister during the World War.

Death came last night after an apoplectic stroke.

News that the baron had been stricken came as a surprise for only a few days ago he was seen on the street apparently in the best of health.

Baron Sidney Sonnino, "the silent statesman of Italy," disabled to talk but could be fluent in five languages, was Prime Minister of Italy in 1906 and again in 1919. From 1914 to 1919, he was Minister of Foreign Affairs. He also served as Minister of Finance, as Minister of the Interior and as a member of parliament.

He brought to the Paris peace conference the reputation of "the first financier of Europe, the man who had probed the economic life of the world to the core."

Sought Common Sense
"I do not shine, I do not glitter," he said on one occasion in the Chamber of Deputies. "I leave that sort of thing to my political opponents. I am satisfied if I can reveal an occasional gleam of common sense."

At another time, addressing his indifferent colleagues, he said: "I propose to put a little knowledge of the state of the nation's revenue into your heads, whether you feel interested or not."

While Minister of Finance he was credited with having laid the foundation for his country's stability from the revenue standpoint and for his establishment of budget surpluses.

Baron Sonnino was one of the most ablest of men in spite of his health. Even before the war he was the most rugged of economies. Italy could not borrow money in the London market by reason of her enormous public debt. Sonnino lowered it by vigorous taxation, by reducing public salaries and expenditures and by dismissing needless employees. The politicians, therefore, hated him.

Was Very Thrifty
"I would not think of having a fire in my bedroom," he protested to the deputies on one occasion. "Our Italian winters are too beautiful to be spoiled in that fashion."

When a Sicilian deputy complained of the food supply in a crisis of the war, Sonnino grimly responded: "I have tasted no meat for a week."

A Jew by race, a Freeholder by faith, and a native of Egypt, the man who was one day destined to handle the Italian ship of state, was born of an Italian Jewish father and a Scotch mother on March 11, 1847, on the banks of the Nile. He was educated partly in England and at the University of Pisa.

Sonnino's grandfather migrated from the ghetto of Leghorn, Italy, to Egypt where he built up an enormous fortune as a banker, a fortune which the future Premier of Italy enjoyed.

FARMERS TOLD ABOUT NEW CONSTITUTION BY TWO DELEGATES

Features of Proposed Basic Law Explained at Fine Meeting.

At a district meeting held at the Court House at Dixon on Monday, about 100 representatives from the five counties in this congressional district met at the Court House to discuss the proposed new constitution.

The meeting was called by the Illinois Agricultural Association and is one of a number of meetings being held in each Congressional District to discuss this proposed basic law.

Lee county was well represented with about 20 or 25 people, mostly farmers, as were also Whiteside, Ogle and Stephenson counties.

Mr. Nichols of Polo, who was a member of the Constitutional Convention and Mr. Brewster of Dixon, who was also a member, were called upon to discuss features of the new constitution of special interest to farmers and people down state.

A few points brought out by Mr. Nichols may be summarized very briefly as follows:

Valuation of property as provided for in the old constitution worked very well for a time. Today, however, intangible property constitutes about 50 per cent of the wealth of Illinois. This has naturally brought cover since it pays less than ten per cent of the tax of the state. On the other hand real estate constitutes 38 per cent of the wealth and pays 88 per cent of the tax. It is not the intention of the new constitution to tax the value of the intangible property as has been the case in the past, but to tax the income from this intangible property. Therefore, if intangible property does not bring in an income, no tax would be imposed upon it. While this may not be entirely fair to the real estate owner that does not receive a net income, it is perhaps the only way for intangible property to ever be listed for taxation. This provision provides that the legislature may tax income from intangible property.

If for no other reason the new constitution should be adopted at the special election on December 12, for the revenue section alone. The special committee on taxation had experts appear before it presenting every theory and practice in taxation, and the new constitution provides the best of all these.

Township Assessor Not Eliminated
The new constitution provides that the county assessor shall be appointed, who duty will be to equalize values for the county. Discrepancies have always occurred in the past, and there has been no way to iron these out. In no way is it expected that the township assessor will be done away with entirely as has been claimed by some who opposed the new constitution.

Only One Election Day
It is provided that there shall be only one election day a year. In the past there have been so many that the duty of citizenship. This one election day to be declared a holiday, and after 1925 if it has not proven successful, the legislature may establish other election days.

The Terrible Omnibus Bill
Hereafter, if the new constitution is adopted, all the appropriation bills shall be printed and on the desks of the legislators three or more days before adjournment. This will prevent millions of dollars being appropriated a few minutes before adjournment. Many appropriation bills are never heard of by different members of the legislature.

State Judiciary Not Menaced
Some criticism to the proposed constitution comes from those who claim that the judiciary of the state will be put in the hands of politics. This is not the case as explained by Mr. Nichols, since the new constitution only provides for coordination and economy in the judiciary branch. This part of the new document probably received more attention by the special committee than any other part of the constitution, and it was with the approval of the 57 lawyers sitting in the convention that this part of the constitution was adopted. This in itself is almost a marvel to have that many lawyers agree on any one point.

Limitation of Chicago
Very naturally Chicago will be quite generally against the new constitution since it tends to limit representation in the senate to one-third, which can never be increased above that percentage. In 1870 14 per cent of the state's population lived in Chicago, today with a new constitution up for approval, 47 per cent of the state lives in Cook county. If this proposed constitution is rejected by the people of Illinois, mainly by Chicago, it is felt that we never will have a chance to adopt a new constitution, since by a new constitution, which the old constitution provides for every ten years, but which has not been done during the last 22 years, Chicago would control the state in everything. With this reapportionment which must come some time under the present constitution, the destinies of Illinois will be settled, probably forever, since the vast population of Chicago, a large part of which are not even citizens, would control our state government. The proposed new constitution takes into account citizenship and not population, which is entirely right, since if the vast alien population of Chicago does not want to become citizens of Illinois, they certainly should have no voice in its government.

All other states in the union with anything like a problem similar to Illinois, with regard to population, have limited the representation from the larger cities with entire satisfaction, and Illinois must do the same on December 12, or perhaps lose the chance forever.

Let Every Citizen Vote
If the new constitution is to carry, it is absolutely necessary that every citizen, both men and women, vote on December 12. It is feared that the negligence of many voters may defeat the constitution, with its many improved provisions over the old constitution.

Opposition Colored
Mr. Nichols and Mr. Brewster both discussed the new constitution at some length, and both emphasized the fact that the opposition to the new constitution is often colored to cover up the real reason for opposition.

The 100 or more in attendance at the meeting unanimously favored the new constitution as indicated by the sentiment expressed and reaction of the meeting.

Second Four Jurors Possible at Herrin
Marion, Ill., Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Attorneys for both the state and defense in the selection of a jury to try five men, charged with murder in connection with the Herrin mine riots last June, expected to make better progress in completing the jury today than they have made in more than a week of examination of veniremen.

Defense attorneys announced the panel of four prospective jurors, which they submitted to the state yesterday but withdrew in a few minutes, probably would be retendered this morning.

Attorneys for the prosecution declared they would accept the panel if it was retendered, and if both sides accepted the panel, it would make eight men in the jury box, as the first panel of four jurors were accepted a week ago. There are four farmers in the second panel and one of the prospective jurors is a former coal miner.

Delos Duty, state's attorney, has requested Judge D. T. Hartwell, presiding, to adjourn court after today's session until next Monday. It is expected that the request will be granted.

WHY WOMEN GET DEPRESSED.
Are not women naturally as light-hearted, brave and hopeful as men? Yes, certainly; but a woman's organism is essentially different from a man's,—more delicate, more sensitive and more exacting. Women in delicate health are more dependent, more nervous, more irritable and more despondent. When a woman develops nervousness, sleeplessness, backaches, headaches, dragging-down pains and melancholia she should lose no time in giving Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound a fair trial, as it will quickly dispel such troubles. This root and herb medicine contains no drugs and has been the standby of American womanhood for nearly fifty years.—Adv.

AS A DEER SEES IT—

D. A. Hunter, Jr.
My home is here among the hills,
Where vagrant breezes wander free
O'er sparkling lakes and laughing rills
Which sing their happy songs for me.
Beneath the rocky crags I roam
Where, in the spring arbutus shows,
This here I live and make my home,
In spite of winter's blinding snows.

I wander over fertile fields,
Through tangled brush and mossy fen,
I linger where all nature yields
Its peaceful stillness in the glen,
And all my life would be a joy
If men would let me wander free,
But they their cruel guns employ
To pester, maim and slaughter me.

What have I done that I should pay
The price supreme and give my life
What have I done—you hunters, say,
I deal in neither stress nor strife,
I eat enough to keep alive,
And He who made the great and small
Intended that I should survive;
But you would kill us, one and all.

My brothers and my sisters flee
Before the cruel, roaring gun,
I have no doubt you'd slaughter me,
And think it naught but harmless fun.

Oh, heedless hunter, pause, survey
The suffering that your practice brings,
Do you take up your gun to slay
The slaves of God, the living things.

SYMPHONY ORCHESTRA PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE—

The Dixon Symphony Orchestra gave a splendid concert at the Christian church last evening as announced. Prof. W. H. Smith as director presented through his group of twenty-three well trained musicians a high-grade of music, and it was given for the music's sake, and not merely as an entertainment. Eight selections were given by the orchestra as a whole, with a clarinet solo by Miss Ruth Dimmick of Dixon, and a violin-cello solo by Miss Margaret Stevens of Sterling, accompanied by Mrs. Mabel Bowers of Sterling. The solos were excellent, and were heartily enjoyed. Mrs. J. E. Keagan read in her usual charming manner, and responded to an encore also. Alister Gerald Thomas of Sterling, cornet soloist, was kept away by sickness, and Mrs. Keagan substituted for him with a reading.

The attendance was good, and the ninety minutes passed all too rapidly. Several came from Franklin Grove, since the orchestra has some valuable talent in it from that neighborhood. The Upstreamers Class of the Christian Bible school felt much gratified over the evening, which, in addition to the pleasure of the occasion, netted their treasury over twenty dollars as their share of the ticket sales.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE—

The use of the wedding veil was unknown in olden times. Instead, the four most intimate friends of the bride held over her and the bridegroom a canopy of rich fabric.

Later these canopies were made of lace or fine linen, beautifully embroidered. The bridal veil of today is an outgrowth of this old custom.

THE CONSTITUTION

Are the voters of Illinois sufficiently familiar with the proposed new constitution to vote upon it intelligently at the election December 12?
We rather doubt it and believe that further enlightenment on both sides of the question would be valuable.
There are many angles to be considered. A number of the features of the proposed basic law are hard to accept. The Telegraph does not like the injection of politics into the supreme court by the provision that certain appellate court judges shall be named by the supreme court from the list of circuit judges or members of the bar; nor does the provision allowing judges to use discretion in the matter of allowing bail sound just light. This provision is directed at conditions in Chicago where the right of bail is greatly abused and it may be the change is justified. The method of granting bail can be regulated by the legislature, so perhaps it is not well founded objection.

The provision that in case the legislature refuses to reapportion the electoral districts of the state the lower of apportionment is vested in three men, the Secretary of State, the Attorney General and the Auditor of Public Accounts, puts tremendous and dangerous power into the hands of these three officials.

However, we have many bad features in our old constitution, and if we reject the new law we keep the old.

We must also consider the many splendid provisions in the new constitution and weigh them against the bad provisions and determine whether the bad features are sufficiently vital and dangerous to demand the rejection of the entire proposition.

Another fact that should be considered is that it will be many years,
probably a lifetime, before another proposed constitution will be offered to the state in case this one is rejected. The new constitution would be much more easily corrected than the old one.

The Telegraph invites the opinions of men and women on this matter.
We will be glad to print communications of reasonable length on both sides of the subject.

STRANGE MR. YOU

We are strange nervous mechanisms, we humans, fearfully and wonderfully made. And here are three of the strangest things about us, caught in the far-flung net, today's news:
A young soldier, mentally wrecked by shell-shock, was experimented on y doctors. Taken to a room where everything was a vivid red, he brieked in agony. Then they led him to a primrose-yellow room. He sighed applied, drifted to deep sleep. Kept in this room he rapidly recovered to normal.

S. T. Ballinger of New York tells a remarkable story of a convention of paint and varnish makers.
Ballinger says scientists have discovered that a room furnished in a dark color tends to cause melancholia and an aversion to work. A red room temporarily stimulates, then acts in nervous headache. Blue induces calm. Green seems to impart happiness and vitality. Yellow makes people amiable, contented, soothed.

A good tip when you redecorate the home. To avoid monotony, use combinations, not one color alone.

The effect of color vibrations on our senses is a mystery.

Railroad riding will be rougher as the weather gets colder, says Dr.
Himmon H. Dudley, weather expert of New York Central Railroad.

He explains it this way: Winter makes the steel rails shrink to length a 150,000th of an inch for each degree the thermometer drops. To our delicate nerves, riding seems very bumpy over the slight gaps between the shrunken rails.

You think it wonderful that "frost"
can shrink steel rails and make them crack. More wonderful is that "we strange humans are more powerful than either cold or steel, both our slaves. Our mental and nerve powers, compared with animals, are little short of terrible.

In Western Electric laboratories,
this is discovered: The human voice can be reduced to a millionth of its volume and still be heard. But the voice cannot be heard when reduced to a ten-millionth.

That is a remarkably fine distinction, the vanishing point of sound so infinitesimally minute that the human brain cannot conceive of it.

'Yet it holds good for all normal human ears although no two people hear the same thing in exactly the same way.

When you ponder marvels consider the delicacy of the human nerves that make all this possible.

SHORT MEN

Jack Johnson, the prize fighter, testifies in a legal hearing in New York that he is "always afraid of a small man."

Johnson says a big man never worries him, but that small men are more dangerous than big men because they are more cunning.

"They can run around your legs
quicker," laments Jack.

Boxing fans can elaborate this in-
to a discussion of the relative importance of weight and punch, compared with "leg work" and speed in general.

All of us can apply the idea to everyday life—the man of quick decision and swift action beating the man of big standing, much influence and great power.

Most of us, if we had to face Jack Johnson in a fight, would rather be eight feet tall and tip the scales at 250 pounds, instead of the small man who annoys him.

Nevertheless, Jack's views should increase the self-confidence of the gentlemen who have to stand on tiptoes in a crowd to see the girl-demonstrator in the drug store window.

The secondary importance of size or strength has been recognized by the philosophers since before Socrates.

Napoleon, "the LITTLE Corporal," was short.

And you know how an elephant is terrified by a mouse.

Size and strength are secondary to speed and brain power. And, of all human forces, brain power is the mightiest.

Charles Darwin, one of the most powerful men that ever lived, was a physical weakling, spending all but a few hours a day in bed during his more creative period.

A child of 15 could have knocked Darwin through the ropes. He couldn't carry a pail of water a block without collapsing. Yet Darwin exerted a greater power than all the prizefighters that ever lived.

Foolish young men, vainly boasting
"Feel my muscles," will realize later in life that what really counts is brain, not brawn.

The truly wise man will develop

BRINGING UP FATHER

both brain and brawn. Together they make an unbeatable team.

MEN 40 OR MORE

Henry Ford speaking: "A man's career doesn't really begin until he is around 40. When he is 40 years old,
a man has just about reached the age
when he may begin to think seriously about making money."

Ford's idea is that the average man cannot expect to accumulate much of a fortune in the first 40 years of life,
so those who have reached this age without much to show for it should not be discouraged.

Up to 40, as Ford sees it, a man's chief function in life is to gain experience. "He should be learning all he can; particularly how to spend money. As I told you two weeks ago, the best advice I can give to a young man anxious to succeed is: Spend your money—on yourself; get all the experience you can. Don't try to save money and be a miser.

Knowledge and experience are working capital to an individual, just as surely as money in the bank.
With $10,000 and no experience, the average man going into business for himself is more apt to go broke than make a success.

Knowledge and experience are even more important than money. To get them, costs money.

Obviously, Ford is not suggesting that we go out and fling our money to the four winds. Observe that he says, spend it ON YOURSELF. What to buy? Good books, education, travel that brings knowledge.

Ford himself is 59. He was nearly 40 before he began giving much thought to building up a fortune.
Previously to that, he had been busy —spending his money experimenting and increasing his fund of information.

He didn't spend on foolish amusements, billiards, baseball betting, rainsjack and clothes, beyond his means. He invested his dollars in increasing his mechanical knowledge, in developing a definite campaign of action in a certain industry, and in acquiring the knowledge of human nature necessary to enable him to market his product, Ford cars.

Now he is "cashing in" on that early investment in himself. Indirectly he had always been saving and accumulating.

The thing to guard against is "spending on ourselves" in the wrong way.

CONVICTS

Our prison system is ruining more men than it is helping, says Charles Booth. He is president of the Prison Reform Association, and grandson of General William Booth.

By all means, let's back everything that possibly can reform the criminal.
The chief obstacle is that the primary function of prisons is protection of the public, not reforming prison inmates. A prisoner is locked up on the same theory that a mad dog is muzzled. That is fact, whether it pleases ideals or not.

PONZI

Ponzi, it is revealed, was offered $1,000,000 cash for the secret of his get-rich-quick coupon business. This was when the Wizard of Pie Alley was just getting the suckers coming faster than he could handle them.
Ponzi could have won a gold medal
as champion optimist, for he refused the offer. If he had accepted and liquidated his business wonder where he'd be today.

At the zenith of his career, Ponzi claims, he had from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in cash. He had a genius for doing things on a big scale. Mis-directed energy.

AUTOS

The auto trade checks up and predicts that American factories this year will turn out nearly 2,500,000
passenger cars and trucks.

In 1914 there were less than 1,600, 000 autos and trucks in the United States. By 1923 the figure will be at least 11,000,000 registrations.

Maybe Einstein can figure out where the cars will be parked during business hours, five years from now.
Roads in rush periods will resemble endless swarms of ants.

Airplanes will come into common use. They'll have to. Highways already are nearing the traffic "saturation point."

CRASHES

Earl Barnes has had his nineteenth auto accident. He lives in Norris City, Ill., and his latest smash-up makes his seventh machine that has been demolished.

Not many people could go through that and emerge alive. Luck though it operates as a law of exceptions, seems to be as definite a force as gravity. Sometimes you meet an op-

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

Jack O'Lantern was leaning against the barn. He was unhappy and dejected in spite of the fact that the corners of his mouth turned up in a grin showing two rows of enormous teeth.

"I don't understand it," he said to the turkey. "For awhile I was the most important person hereabouts.
Every night the children put a candle in me and carried me around on a broomstick and scared the whole neighborhood, and my, but we had fun."

"Yes, I know," gobbled the turkey sympathetically. "Indeed I was very jealous of you getting all the attention. It just shows how fickle people are and how soon they tire of their friends."

"Well, you don't need to be jealous now," spoke up Jack O'Lantern with spirit. "The whole family have suddenly grown quite fond of you. Master feeds you enough corn to make you burst, and Mistress says a dozen times a day, 'My, but that turkey is getting fat!' As for me, not a soul looks to see how thin I am getting. I feel all gone inside!"

Jack O'Lantern sighed such an enormous sigh that he fell over on the ground and his head rolled off his broomstick body. "Now I am done for," he cried out weakly. "No one will ever see me here."

Suddenly a voice asked, "Does anyone know where we can find Mr.
Jack O'Lantern?"

"Goodness!" thought Jack O'Lantern. "I must be of some importance after all! Somebody hasn't forgotten me. I wonder who it is.
Here I am!" he called as loudly as he could. "Who wants me?"

"Nancy and Nick," came Nancy's sweet voice. "We're looking for Mother Goose's broom. Did you see it?"

COAL

At the I. W. W. convention in Chicago, delegates "pan" the British miners for furnishing coal to our country during the coal strike, thus indirectly helping fight American miners.

British miners will come back with this: American miners helped smash
our 1921 strike by furnishing American coal for export to England.

Like nearly everything else, "it depends on who's doing it."

SOFTER COLORS.

The use of softer colors has been started in Paris. Particularly the figured materials show less contrast and much more blending of colors.

Michigan man claims he got fat on sawdust. Don't tell the cook.

Utah has eight feet of snow in places, so Utah coal men are happy.

Near Centerville, Ill., a $40,000 mine
payroll was stolen but the bandits didn't get any coal.

Airplanes are going so high and fast

I've kept the wrens under my glim.
I've piped 'em at work and I've lumped 'em at play,
I've flirited and danced with 'em, too.
At knowing the ladies I'll modestly say
The birds that outclass me are few.

I'VE looked 'em all over; the kind you can pet,
And also the kind that you can't.
The baby-faced blond and the stately brunet;
At flappers I've taken a slant,
The vamps and the ingenues, queens and the dolls,
And all other kinds there may be;
If any one's got any dope on the molls,
I reckon that baby is me!

AND now that that's settled, I'll slip you the dope
And tell you as much as I know.
For my education is wide in its scope,
I'm jerry, I'm jake and I'm joe;
If anyone knows 'em I ota, that's plain,
I should be some wise little elf.
But though I've endeavored to study each jane,
I don't know no more than yourself!

THE WOMAN ON THE TERRACE

Begin Here Today

The strange woman in the invalid chair had been talking angrily with her companion when

CHAPTER II
THE American broke in. His voice was no longer restrained. "I don't see what you've got to with it," he said.

Monsieur Jonquille did not at once reply. He looked at his cigarette as though it were somehow unsatisfactory; puffed it a moment until the tip glowed; then he tossed it over his shoulder and the terrace into the bushes.

Almost immediately the bushes parted and two persons came up onto the terrace. They were footmen in a rather conspicuous foreign livery. They paid no attention to either Monsieur Jonquille or the American. They addressed themselves with apologetic diffidence to the woman in the chair.

They explained that a parrot belonging to the Princess Kitzensoff, who occupied the great villa above, had escaped and was concealed somewhere in the thick shrubbery of madame's garden. Would they be permitted to search for it?

The woman in the chair moved her head slowly in assent. Then she dismissed them with a gesture. They went down off the terrace and toward the rear of the villa in their search, and the woman in the chair addressed the American.

"You must believe," she said, "that Monsieur Jonquille is an old acquaintance and that this explanation is not to be denied him. Neither are you to be denied it. You came here or it precisely as he has come or it."

You have followed me here, trailing out my flight, as he has followed. The two of you arrived nearly on the moment, and I shall be pleased to include the two of you in my explanation. You were demanding it as Monsieur Jonquille arrived—with some heat, if I correctly remember."

The American replied in his abrupt manner: "I don't understand this thing," he said. "But I do want to know how this house happened to burn while I was absent. You are the only person who had a key to it, and you must have burned it or you would not have run away and hid yourself—now, what's the story?"

The woman had a bit of delicate lace in her fingers. She put it up a moment to her lips. Then she spoke, addressing her two guests. Her voice was slow, serene, and detached, like one who speaks without interest, without emotion, and without any concern for effect. It was like a voice from a mechanical appliance, having intelligence, but no will to feel.

"I have been attached to Monsieur

Dillard," she said. "There was a fortune before us, an immense, incredible fortune. The anticipation of it bound me to him, and so the burning of this house must have been an accident. The lure of a fortune is the only influence that does not loosen as one advances into life, in a world where presently every emotion falls. Therefore Monsieur Dillard had a right to feel that he could trust me, since my interest in this fortune was identical with his own."

She paused, and seemed to address Monsieur Jonquille directly. "You will be concerned, monsieur, about the mystery of this fortune. It was no dream, and depended upon no uncertain hazard of chance. Monsieur Dillard is an artist—an artist with a genius for turning art to a practical use. There have been greater artists than Monsieur Dillard in production, but not in methods by which which art can be made to serve a practical purpose; that is to say can be made to produce a fortune. It is the life-work of Monsieur Dillard not to produce art, but to bring the artistic skill of the masters of art to his practical purposes. And, in this department, he has no superior in any country. The house in the Faubourg St. Germain was in fact a storeroom. It was, at the time of its destruction by fire, literally packed with masterpieces—beautiful works of art of an incredible value."

She did not move the position of her body in the chair. But she again vaguely touched her lips with the handkerchief in her fingers, a bit of filmy lace.

"Monsieur," she said, "there have been in the world three men who are supreme in what is perhaps the highest of all artistic production. I shall name them to you; Monsieur Whistler, the American; Monsieur Helleu of Paris, and Wagenheim of Munich."

She moved a trifle in the chair. Then she went on. "The misfortune of producing a masterpiece in oil or in water-color is that one copy only of this masterpiece exists, and if by any misfortune it is destroyed, every adequate evidence of its beauty has disappeared forever. This is the unfortunate feature attached to the work of all the great masters."

"But it is a misfortune that does not attend the etchings of Monsieur Whistler, Monsieur Helleu, and Herr Wagenheim. The beautiful face of the lovely Americans preserved by the etchings of Monsieur Helleu can be reproduced in any number. That beauty does not depend upon the jeopardy of a single picture."

Her voice seemed to advance, but not with the stimulus of any emotion.

"It is not commonly known," she said, "that an extreme skill is required to obtain in the prints all the beauties of these etchings. The prints are commonly made by persons having only the usual workman's skill."

"But it was always realized by the masters of this art that the extreme and delicate beauties of their etchings could be produced only by an adequate skill, by a skill almost equal to their own, in the printing of the picture. This skill constitutes the peculiar genius of Monsieur Dillard—a skill which he has striven to perfect, and which he has finally brought to the highest excellence."

"He labored in the house in the Faubourg St. Germain for a long time and with an incredible patience, until he became the superior of any man living, and the house, as I have said, was literally packed with the most beautiful and most valuable reproductions of this character in the world. This accumulated treasure represented the incredible fortune which was before Monsieur Dillard and myself."

"It was on the night that he had gone to Bordeaux in order to make some arrangement for the removal of the treasure that the unfortunate fire occurred that wiped out our fortune in an hour, leaving Monsieur penniless and myself with but the ruin of another illusion. And it happened, monsieur, in the simplest fashion."

There was absolute silence on the terrace before the villa. The vaguely blue sky seemed to underlie a world of amethyst. Heavy odors were in the air. A little beyond the terrace the leaves of a flowering vine moved where the footmen of the Princess Kitzensoff searched as noiselessly as ghosts for the lost parrot. The shadowy figures of the two footmen were outlined to the woman in the chair, and perhaps to Monsieur Jonquille, but they were not visible to the American.

He sat like a tense figure in some organic medium, grim, rigid; always in that immobility which seemed to await the next word before it flashed into violent life; as though madame's words were the delicate implement of a vivisectionist moving about a nerve which it never touched, but which it constantly teased.

"It was the simplest accident," the woman repeated in her placid voice. "The original etchings of an immortal like one of the three which I have already named are priceless—they cannot be replaced."

"Out of the fear that the house might be entered, after the reproductions had been made, these originals were placed under some rubbish in the basement of the house."

"This basement had not been entered for a long time, and when these originals were concealed there, care was taken not to disturb the appearance which this room presented of not having been opened for an incredible age."

"It was low, with an earth floor. The ceiling was of wooden beams dried out and beginning to decay and as inflammable as tinder. The whole of this ceiling was hung with cobwebs, laced over them, hanging like veils in shreds."

"On the night of the disaster, before leaving the house, I went into this basement to make sure that the originals stored there remained as we had placed them. It was late, and I took a candle. This was a fatal indiscretion."

"When I arose from an examination of the place where the etchings were concealed, the flame of the candle came in contact with the hanging spider-webs, and immediately the whole ceiling flashed into flame. In an instant it seemed to me the entire ceiling of the room was on fire. I had barely time to escape before the room was a furnace."

The final installment of "The Woman on the Terrace" will appear in our next issue.

Oats now ready before coffee

There is now an Instant Quaker Oats which cooks to perfection in 3 to 5 minutes. It is the quickest cooking oats in the world.

The same extra quality as in regular Quaker Oats. Flaked from queen grains only—just the rich, plump, flavory oats. They have the same exquisite flavor which won the world to Quaker.

But in Instant Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And the small thin flakes cook quickly.

Grocers have both styles—take your choice. The Instant style has "Instant" on the label.

LOWDEN SAYS NEW CONSTITUTION WILL AID ALL CITIZENS

Former Governor Endorses New Law; Calls It Really Great.

Former Governor Frank O. Lowden, known for his effective work in the cause of better government for the state of Illinois, is unequalled in his praise of the new constitution, and in a public address urged the people to vote for it at the special election on Tuesday, Dec. 12.

"The more I have studied the work of the recent Constitutional convention," Governor Lowden said, "the more thoroughly I am convinced that it framed a very great instrument, the adoption of which will vastly benefit the people of our state."

"No constitution," the governor declared, "can satisfy completely any man. Strong men may agree upon a few of the fundamental principles of government, but it is humanly impossible for them to hold identical opinions upon a complete framework of government. Necessarily, therefore, every written constitution must, in part at least, be the result of compromise."

"This was true of our federal Constitution. And strange as it may seem, those parts of the Constitution which were the result of compromise have come to be regarded as among the most valuable contributions to our government of the great body which framed that instrument."

He went into the various sections of the new constitution, heartily endorsing the revenue article, the legislative restrictions which require that printed copies of all appropriation bills be before members at least three days prior to time of reading, the more liberal provision regarding amendment of the constitution and others.

Improves on Old.
"I know of no important provision of the old constitution that has been generally approved by the people which is omitted from the present document," Governor Lowden declared. "On the other hand, there are many substantial improvements."

"The uniform property tax required in the old constitution has been long outworn. Other states have abandoned it with highly gratifying results. Under that provision, the same rate of taxation must be levied upon all property of all kinds. This would seem, upon its face, to be fair, but in practice it is most unjust. The result has been that a large proportion of intangible personal property has escaped taxation altogether."

"Take, for instance, bonds and mortgages. The rate of taxation in Illinois is frequently not less than two and one-half per cent upon the actual cash value. Bonds and mortgages drawing from four to five per cent, if this rate were strictly applied, would pay half or more of their yield to the tax gatherer. If this rate were strictly enforced, the owners of that form of property would acquire a residence elsewhere where the laws of taxation are less burdensome, and Illinois would be the loser. The result is just the law is not generally enforced as against this form of property."

"As a general rule, the only people in Illinois today who are paying full personal property taxes upon their intangible holdings are the widows and orphans whose property is in the hands of the Probate court or held in trust, and who therefore cannot conceal such property."

Real Estate Bears Burden New.

"One of the consequences of the present constitution is that real estate bears altogether more than its share of taxes. The new constitution remedies this. It provides that the legislature may, in lieu of direct taxes upon intangible personal property, levy a uniform income tax upon the revenue derived from such property. There can be no possible question but that a very much larger income will be derived from this form of personal property in this way than at present. This should lower the rate of taxation upon real estate."

"Another improvement in the new constitution which appeals to me strongly is that which provides that no appropriation bill shall be considered unless the bill or report has been printed in its final form and placed on the desks of the members at least three legislative days prior to the final passage of the bill or the consideration of the report."

"Under the present practice, on the very last night of the session, usually in the early morning hours, conference reports containing appropriations which which the members cannot possibly be acquainted, are submitted and rushed through without either consideration by the members or knowledge even on their part of what the conference reports contain. This has been perhaps the most prolific cause of scandals in our legislative sessions. Enormous sums of money have thus been appropriated which never in the world would have gotten by the two houses if this provision of the new constitution had been in effect."

LOYD TO BE CLERK
Joliet, Ill., Nov. 23.—William Bros Lloyd, millionaire communist leader, will be clerk in the prison library here beginning next Monday.

Penitentiary authorities assigned him to his regular task this afternoon and the rest of the week will be spent by him with mental examinations and other routine work preparatory to entering service regularly.

NEW BEAUTY DEVICE.

A new device is on the market to beautify the elbows. It consists of a strap of silk gauze which holds a pad in place so that it covers the darkened and rough place one is apt to get on the elbow. The pad is saturated with bleaching cream and worn at night until the original softness and smoothness of the flesh has returned.

DEEP WATERS NO. 11

AN OLD LOVE IS BORN AGAIN

BY ZOE BECKLEY

BEGIN HERE TODAY

The time had come when JOHN BARRETT, successful business man, decided that all love had vanished during the 19 years of married life with his wife, ANITA. He decides to shake off the tedium of matrimony and tells Anita that he has decided to start life anew with MYRA DEAN, a woman of the world. Myra objects to figuring as correspondent in a divorce suit, but Barrett goes to his old friend, REX WARREN, a lawyer, who at one time was in love with Anita. Warren and Barrett quarrel, but the lawyer decides to see Anita before advising them in regard to the divorce.

GO ON WITH THE STORY

No sooner was Barrett well gone than Rex Warren left his busy law office and went straight to Anita Barr. The two greeted each other quietly, with that lack of ostentation that comes of long and deep understanding. Briefly Warren told her of her husband's talk.

Anita turned to stare out of the window. In her stiff attitude was a summoning of resistance to an overwhelming crisis—a woman who has wrapped herself so long in defensive coldness that she no longer knows the relief of giving way to her natural feelings.

"What do you want me to do, Anita? You must tell me where you stand—where we all stand."

Anita tore her hands apart. "Oh, I don't know, Rex. I don't know. It's all such a muddle, a vicious circle. We've grown so apart. John and I, I've steered myself for years to keep from showing how his indifference hurt me. Now it's my coldness that makes him hate me. We can't come together again now. It's too late."

"Would you if you could?" She looked straight at him a moment, her lips trembling.

"I don't think so, Rex. I feel dead inside. But I'm so anxious for the children. I want them to have their father. Yet how can I cling to a man who hates to stay?"

"You've got to decide. What do you want?" There was such insistence, such grim command in his question, that it roused superficially a flash of resentment in her. "Don't bully me into a decision, I—Oh, forgive me, Rex, I didn't mean—"

Mary MacSwiney is Given the Sacrament

Dublin, Nov. 24.—(By the Associated Press)—Miss Annie MacSwiney, who has fasted outside the gates of Mount Joy prison since last Friday as a protest against the imprisonment of her sister Mary, was removed by friends last evening to a private nursing home. She was in a very weak condition but refused to take food and only swallowed some water.

In a letter to the newspapers Mary

"I'M BULLYING BECAUSE THIS IS PARTLY MY AFFAIR TOO."

"Never mind the amenities, Anita. I'm bullying because this is partly my affair, too."

"Rex! There was a note of alarm in her tone.

"Oh, Anita, for heaven's sake, let's be direct about what we know. The thing I want most on earth is that you should have what you most want. No matter what it is, I'll help you to get it. I want to bring happiness to you, Anita. If you decide to let him go, remember I have never changed toward you, never shall."

The feel of support when everything about her was toppling touched her to tears. She put her hand on his shoulder.

"I often feel, Rex, that friendship is more precious than love. It lasts longer, wears better, endures more."

He reached up for her hand, pressed it in both his, allowed her to draw it away.

"I'm grateful that you feel friendship for me," he said quietly. "But on my side, there is more than that. Remember it, Anita. And he was gone."

(To Be Continued)
(Copyright, 1922, NEA Service)

MacSwiney says that her sister who has been on a hunger strike for twenty days, received the sacrament on Wednesday and was given extreme unction.

Mary now refuses visits from the prison doctors and nurses. She is attended day and night by her fellow prisoners.

What Does America Need

BLAMES HUMAN NATURE

Editor Telegraph:

To find what is wrong with America, we must find what is wrong with the American people. Our government and conditions generally in our country, reflect accurately the composite or average mentality and spiritual development of Americans.

For instance, the only reason we have multimillionaires or tolerate them, is because the average American in his heart wants to become a multimillionaire himself.

Our government and system of economics are sufficiently elastic to reflect the inner desires, prejudices, vices, avarices, etc., of the people as a mass.

Take prohibition. The trouble isn't in the law, but in the customs—the public.

We'll never have a Golden Rule country until we become Golden Rule individuals.

Conditions are the results, the people are the causes. Governments and industrial systems cannot be reformed until the people are reformed.

This leads to—what? Why? That the trouble is in human nature.

Conditions never are any better nor any worse than the average of the people. We had sentimental ballads when people were sentimental and dreamy. We got jazz when the average person became a jazz individual. ROGER DOLAN.

CHEER LEADERS

Editor Telegraph:

America needs more people who will be cheer leaders, who will spread sunshine and good will instead of gloom and discontent.

If more of our people would live for the joy of living and being contented and making others contented, there would be a broader spirit in home, business and political life of America. MABEL CAVENDISH.

ATTACKS CONSTITUTION.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Bloomington, Ill., Nov. 23.—Characterizing the proposed new constitution as "the most reactionary document that has ever been offered to the people of a state," and its makers as "tools in the hands of predatory wealth," Clarence Darrow, of Chicago launched an attack at a huge meeting at the high school auditorium here last night. President David Feimely of the Illinois State Normal University presided over the meeting which was held under the auspices of the Open Forum.

Mr. Darrow analyzed the various provisions of the document pointing out that they were intended to benefit the extremely wealthy and to have no consideration for the poor. In particular he attacked the revenue provisions, the bail section, the part dealing with the powers of the supreme court and the section permitting the Bible to be read in the school. He concluded with a plea to all citizens to express themselves as absolutely opposed to the document on Dec. 12.

DAVENPORT JUDGE DEAD.

Davenport, Iowa, Nov. 23.—Judge William Theophilus, 64, for 12 years judge of the district court died today.

The use of eggs at Easter is a survival of a pagan custom, quite unrelated to Christianity.

Gallatin, Mo., Bank is Robbed Thursday

St. Joseph, Mo., Nov. 23.—Six bandits robbed the First National Bank at Gallatin, Missouri, of $4,000 in gold and currency today. Ten thousand dollars in cash was overlooked in the vault. The robbers entered the town about 3 o'clock, shot the night watchman, and while one robber watched him the others blew the vault and safe at the bank. The explosions were at about ten minute intervals and before the last one a crowd of citizens had collected.

The crowd was held at bay while the bandits' operations were completed. Numerous shots were fired from sawed off shotguns and revolvers to intimidate the onlookers. The robbers escaped in a motor car. During the firing, a shot struck Frank Woodruff, hotel keeper. Neither Woodruff's nor the watchman's wounds are dangerous.

Through numerous warnings and revivals, the game of croquet is traceable back to the ancient Gauls.

Arrest Swiss Who Threatened Building

New York, Nov. 23.—Julius Reynolds, a native of Switzerland, was arrested today charged with being the author of a note received by the custodian of Borough Hall, Brooklyn Tuesday, in which the writer claimed responsibility for the Wall Street explosion in 1920, and threatened to bomb the hall.

The office of coroner dates back, in England, to the twelfth century.

JURY SELECTION SLOW
Greeley Colo., Nov. 23—Work of obtaining a jury continued in the district court here today in the trial of Bert J. Lowe, charged with the slaying of his sister-in-law, Edna Fern Skinner, of Bloomington, Illinois, with the prospect that it would not be completed before next week.

No jurors had been sworn in today. Although there were eleven men in the box, neither prosecution nor defense had exercised any of its peremptory challenges and it was considered likely that the majority, if not all of the eleven would be dismissed.

There will be no session of court tomorrow and only a brief session Saturday.

The body of Miss Skinner was found in her home following a gasoline explosion July 2, last. The state charges that Lowe killed the girl and then caused the explosion, burning the body, to gain her insurance. Lowe is an insurance agent.

Thanksgiving Day—

Set aside by our forefathers as a time for devotion and thanksgiving—often loses its significance in this day of hurry and bustle. To the rank and file of us it has come to mean merely a coveted holiday.

It is a human fallacy to forget the spirit of an occasion while remembering the letter of it. Yet we have so much more to be truly thankful for than our courageous ancestors.

An hour might be worse spent than in thinking over our advantages and opportunities. Thinking about them makes us appreciate them more, and appreciating them more induces us to make the best use of them.

WHAT DOES AMERICA NEED?

Telegraph Readers Are Going to Tell the World.

Ever since the war, Americans have sensed unrest throughout the country—orderly unrest, but nevertheless unsettled conditions, uncertainty, everywhere.

Try to analyze the cause. Every person will give you a reason—but each reason will be different. We all feel something is needed—but meantime, construction, business enterprises, new industries are being delayed by this uncertainty just at the time when the world looks to America to take the lead in reconstruction.

To thoroughly analyze this mass of conflicting beliefs and find out just what the country really thinks about it, the Telegraph, in co-operation with several hundred other representative newspapers, clients of NEA Service, will conduct a national poll on the question: "WHAT DOES AMERICA NEED?" Through letters from newspaper readers all over the country, a constructive, comprehensive survey of opinion will be made.

What do YOU think America needs? Write your opinions, discussing any matters you may think connected with the present national situation. Send your letters to: EDITOR, EVENING TELEGRAPH. After they are published in the Telegraph these letters will be sent on to the NEA Service for listing in the national compilation, results of which will be carried in this newspaper.

Write your letters on one side of the paper only. Sign your name and address. Letters must not be longer than 200 words.

CRITICISM OF SPEECHES HAS PLEASED TIGER

Clemenceau Says He Welcomes Discussion of Addresses.

New York, Nov. 23.—As Georges Clemenceau left for Boston today in Charles M. Schwab's private car, he said he welcomed criticism of his speeches by members of congress. "That's good," Clemenceau said when he read accounts of what congressmen were saying. "That's what I came to America for, to invite discussion. That's my idea of democratic free speech. It is what I found when I came here more than fifty years ago, and I certainly did not expect any change."

In taking leave of Charles Dana Gibson, whose guest he had been here, "The Tiger" embraced him and said: "You are wonderful, you are generous, you are true friends and my friends for ever. Often I shall cross the Atlantic and many times I shall see you. You too, shall cross the Atlantic and many times see me. You know I shall live yet many many years."

Declares Faculty of University Not for Large Stadium

Chicago, Nov. 23.—An editorial printed in the recent issue of the Daily Maroon, official student publication of the University of Chicago, declaring that "active members of the university and faculty members do not want an enlarged stadium" was the subject of comment among football fans today. "The huge crowds which have flocked to Stagg Field this season," the editorial declared, "are exceptional."

"People are attracted to the Chicago games this season because the Maroon squad is known as one of the best in the conference."

The possibility that the athletic department of the university would derive more revenue by enlarging the seating capacity of the stadium was scorned by the editorial.

Concluding the editorial stated that "the university is not a part of Chicago and it receives no money from Chicago or Illinois, except in the form of tuition, such as is paid by students from other states and countries."

"Hence," it added, "the university need not cater to the football tastes of the public."

Wants Hangman's Place at Herrin

Marion, Ill., Nov. 23.—(By the Associated Press)—The monotony of examining prospective jurors to try five men charged with murder in connection with the Herrin mine killings, was broken somewhat today Circuit Court Judge Hartwell, made public a letter he received from a man in New Jersey asking for the position as hangman, should the death penalty be imposed.

The writer gave his name as William S. Gilbert of Trenton and said he could furnish reference as a good hangman. He mentioned the state warden of New Jersey as reference as to his ability in this particular line and added that he would be satisfied with whatever fee was allowed in Illinois, plus his expenses.

MINOR PARTIES VOTE
Springfield, Ill., Nov. 23.—Unofficial totals of the vote polled by the minor parties in the last election indicate that the Farmer-Laborites have twice the strength in downstate Illinois that the Socialists have. The highest vote cast downstate for a candidate outside the two major parties, was received by Robert M. Buck, Farmer-Laborite candidate for state treasurer. He received 27,942 votes. For the same office the Socialist candidate, Robert H. Howe, polled 14,214. This same ratio between these two parties was maintained throughout downstate.

This as compared with the major party voting for the same office: Oscar Nelson, republican, 559,425 and Peter Bartsen, democrat, 348,486.
